Detailed Project Description and Justification:

Weed and Seed, a community-based strategy sponsored by the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), is an innovative, comprehensive multi-agency approach to law enforcement, crime prevention, and community revitalization. Community Capacity Development Office (CCDO) oversees the Weed and Seed initiative. Weed and Seed is foremost a strategy—rather than a grant program—that aims to prevent, control, and reduce violent crime, drug abuse, and gang activity in designated high-crime neighborhoods across the country. East Anchorage has been recognized as a Weed and Seed site since 1999. The intent of the initiative is to "Weed" out crime and "Seed" new opportunities. This year's funding request will help in the continuation of this valuable strategy for the Northeast Anchorage community. Currently there is no funding allotted for this site from USDOJ. The funds will be used for gas for the NorthEast Community Center to drive children to school and pick them up in the afternoon and for field trips. We will also use the funds to help defray membership fees for the low income children of this neighborhood. And lastly we will use the funds for salary for the Program coordinator. There is no local match.

Project Timeline:

FY2009 Funds will be expended throughout the life of the grant.

Operation Weed and Seed

Operation Weed and Seed, a U.S. Department of Justice community-based initiative, is an innovative and comprehensive multi-agency approach to law enforcement, crime prevention, and community revitalization.

The Weed and Seed Strategy

Operation Weed and Seed is foremost a strategy—rather than a grant program—which aims to prevent, control, and reduce violent crime, drug abuse, and gang activity in designated high-crime neighborhoods across the country. Weed and Seed sites range in size from several neighborhood blocks to several square miles.

The strategy involves a two-pronged approach: law enforcement agencies and prosecutors cooperate in "weeding out" criminals who participate in violent crime and drug abuse, attempting to prevent their return to the targeted area; and "seeding" brings human services to the area, encompassing prevention, intervention, treatment, and neighborhood revitalization. A community-oriented policing component bridges weeding and seeding strategies. Officers obtain helpful information from area residents for weeding efforts while they aid residents in obtaining information about community revitalization and seeding resources.

The Role of the United States Attorney

At each site, the United States Attorney plays a central role in organizing the Steering Committee and bringing together the communities with other Weed and Seed participants. The United States Attorney also facilitates coordination of federal, state, and local law enforcement efforts. Through such coordination, sites can effectively use federal law enforcement partners in weeding strategies and mobilize resources for seeding programs from a variety of federal agencies.

Official Recognition

On a track separate from funding, the Department of Justice works with sites developing Weed and Seed strategies.

A prospective site applies for Official Recognition of its Weed and Seed strategy by submitting its proposed strategy—through the local United States Attorney's Office—to the Community Capacity Development Office (CCDO) for review and approval. The strategy must be developed locally in accordance with CCDO guidelines. Benefits of Official Recognition include preference in receiving discretionary resources from participating federal agencies; priority for participating in federallysponsored training and technical assistance; use of the official Weed and Seed logo; and eligibility to apply for Department of Justice Weed and Seed funds.

Funding for Sites

During Fiscal Year 2004, approximately 300 communities used funding from the Community Capacity Development Office.

Since Weed and Seed is foremost a strategy rather than a grant program, all Weed and Seed sites must show their capacity to obtain financial and in-kind resources from a variety of public and private sources.

Many Weed and Seed sites have received support from federal, state, and local agencies, and the private sector (both non-profit and for-profit).

Communities interested in eligibility to apply for Fiscal Year 2006 Weed and Seed funds (subject to the availability of funds as appropriated by Congress) must have filed a Letter of Intent to apply for Official Recognition, co-signed by their U.S. Attorney, by August 31, 2005; must have submitted the proposed application for Official Recognition to the local U.S. Attorney's Office for review by October 15, 2005; and must have applied for or received Official Recognition by October 31, 2005. CCDO issues funding application kits only to eligible sites.

Guidelines for Official Recognition are posted on the CCDO Web site at: www.ojp.usdoj.gov/ccdo/

Evaluation

Evaluation ensures that the Weed and Seed strategy is working in the sites. Therefore, the Department of Justice emphasizes evaluation of the program both locally and nationally. Original sites were required to carry out a local evaluation. National evaluations of Weed and Seed include the national process evaluation by the Institute for Social Analysis (1995) and the national impact evaluation of the program by Abt Associates (1999). Many other local evaluations are ongoing.

Oversight

The Community Capacity Development Office, Office of Justice Programs, at the U.S.
Department of Justice, oversees the Weed and Seed program.

The Department of Justice implements a broad spectrum of programs to help prevent crime and assist law enforcement efforts around the nation. As one of these programs, Weed and Seed is the key component of the Department of Justice's antiviolence and drug enforcement/comprehensive community revitalization strategy. Through these efforts, community residents nationwide have hope that they can enjoy a safer and better quality of life.
